NEW YORK, April 21.—On his recent arrival in New York Jack Palmer, the English lighter, who was decisively defeated by Jack (Twin) Sullivan, deemed it wise to set himself right with the sporting frateristy by making some expianation of his failure to win that battle. He says:

"As the public prints have seen fit to heap so much adverse criticism upon my shoulders on account of my bout with Jack Twin Sullivan, I would like to set myself right before the sporting public of America. They have characterized me as a "lemon," a "princ," and what not, It scarcely is fair to pass judgment upon my fistic ability on the showing I made by fistic ability on the showing I made this one bout, and I don't mind say-

"I admit he beat me fairly, decisively; lso, that my showing was not calculated o arouse much enthusiasm, but, in duty o myself, I must plead extenuating circumstances. While I do this, I do not tean to deprive Sullivan of any crest, which his victory over me entitles. o which his victory over me entitles dm. In the four-mile "Penn" will again be a leading factor, and will make a desperate effort to humble Michigan, whose team has won this event four years in succession, and last year established a new world's record. Michigan will be on hand with the same team as last year—Ramey, Rowe, Maloney and Coe—while Pennsylvania has three of her 1995 veterans in Haskins, the mile champion; Jones, the cross-country champion, and Root. The fourth man will probably be Carothers. Michigan is the favorite.

In the two-mile race, Yale is picked to defeat Dartmouth, last year's winner; Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania. The Elis have two stars in Parsons, 1:56, and Tillson, 2:00. Afterwards he started to pitch, and so well did he toss them to the plate that he was made a "regular" worker. Four years went by only too quickly, and Lawson found that he could play no more. But in the hearts of all of those Chapel Hill boy's there was a "feeling" for the man whose right arm had meant so much for the Tarheels. He could not pitch any more with the college team, but he could at least be near and give some encouragement by his presence.

by his presence.

Hence his selection as assistant professor, of anatomy. That position he now holds, notwithstanding the fact that he goes to Straudsburg each summer and pitches twice a week for a team in that village that is composed of players who come from the principal colleges in the Unitel States.

The crowds to witness these games are not large ones, and the league, from a financial standpoint, is not a success. But it is backed by men who love baseball and who are willing to pay good salaries to gentlemanly collega hall players, and who do not care whether a crowd comes or not. The box-office receipts are a secondary consideration with these magnates.

R. B. Lawson, who has graduated in materia medica at the University of North Carolina, is a brother of Mr. George W. Lawson, special agent for the Southern Bell Telephone Company of Richmond. Dr. Lawson pitched one game here last year, winning it easily, not allowing a hit for the seven innings that he worked. He had to catch a train or he would have remained to toss them over for the other two innings.

remained to toss them over for the other two innings.

But to return to the fact that ball players are, in the strictest sense of the word "It" in Straudsburg, it is best to hear what Mr. George Lawson has to say:

"I arrived in the village, which is bestliftly one and nonulated almost "I arrived in the village, which is a beautiful one, and populated almost exclusively by millionaires, early in the morning, and wanting to get my shoes shined propped myself on a seat in a shoe-shining place. I look somewhat like my brother (the Kid), and after telling the boot-black that I was in the place to visit my brother, I offered him the price for the shine. He politely declined it with the exclamation:

He politely declined it with the ex-clamation:

"Later I had to go to the depot after my trunk. The street cars there act as express wagons, and carry trunks and vallases, etc. The motorman always stops the car and rolls the trunk along from the street to the sidewalk in front of the house. I wanted to pay him for his trouble, when I heard him say:

motorman dotted its fact.

"And it was the same thing when I was eating, drinking or doing anything else," he remarked.

"I did manage to spend eight dollars for an automobile ride for a few friends of mine, and I could not have gotten rid of this change if I had not declared positively that I would not leave the place unless I was allowed to pay the way. Experts Predict That Local Oarsmen Have Good Chance of Winning the Title.

Winning the Title.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Columbia's rowing forces will be unable to get to the Poughkeepsic training headquarters until within a week or so of the big race this season, because of the lateness of commencement exercises in the Morningside Heights College.

Coach Rice has his men on the water every possible day, and the candidates are moving forward in better style than was anticipated. The men are getting familiar with the Rice stroke, and the shells travel well between strokes.

Many oursmen who saw the crows row the other day agreed that somebody was likely to be fooled at Poughkeepsie this year. One of the experts said:

"I do not predict that Columbia will win, but she is likely to be closer to the top in the big 'varsity rage than many people give her credit for."

and Public Schools Start The past week has been replete with interest in many branches of sports, with perhaps the great national pastime holdinterest in many branches of sports, with increase the great national pastime holding the centre of the stage. Richmond, as all good fung know, is now the real leader of the Virginia State Baseball League, having won that enviable position through superior all around work which enabled it to capture the first three games of the season from Danville a team that was forecasted as having a squad that would push the best of them to the limit. Reanoke shows itself to be well prepared to set the pace for a time at least, by having defeated the Lynchburg champlons in the first and last of the three games, and Portsmouth and Norfolk, the two most intense rivals in the league, split even on the series, the second contest being called off because of inclement weather.

As has been stated before in these columns, Richmond has a good team, Of course, simply because the Lawmakers took those three games does not mean that they will literally sweep everything before them. The victory over Danville has little to do with the subject.

over Danville has little to do with the subject.

It was the demonstration of their capabilities in those games that should cause no little amount of satisfaction to the owners of the club and to Manager Shaffer. The men know the game, and have in the short time they have been before the public deserved, by their efforts, much confidence from that same fickle public, which at the first slump of the team, or, in fact, from any one individual on the team, will begin to grow pessimistic, and say: "Well, I thought it would come."

As any one, who has followed the game closely, knows, every player cannot always feel in tip-top condition, even if a club carried a trainer for each man, and it is but natural and inevitable, that slumps will come. In these times of adversity for the manager, it is well to be charitable, and a player that has any self-respect will realize the generosity of the fans, and when he returns to form, work all the harder. If he does not, or if the team shows an inclination to shirk what they one to the public which indirectly supports them and the owners of the club, and it is apparent that they are "laying down on their jobs," then is the time to slip them a timely hint, and this paper will do it.

Not only has the professional made his bow during the past seven days. The small boy in all his glory has started out in earnest. The Amateur League opened on Saturday with a vic-tory for the Journal team over the Autos by the large score of 27 to 0. Games will be in order now until the close of the season some time in May.

To-day will see the opening of still another amateur baseball league. This afternoon the Public School League will play the opening games.

One item that is of vital interest to amateur field and track sports in this city and throughout the State, was the manner in which the University the manner in which the University of Virginia's intercollegiate field and track meet was conducted on Saturday evening, when several Richmond College boys, who had had little or no opportunity to practice, went to Charlottesville and carried off prizes in a number of events. With less than half a dozen entries, the Spiders finished third in the total number of noises a dozen entries, the Spiders finished third in the total number of points won, with 17. Virginia was first, with $3, and George Washington, second, with 38, Miller, Robinson, Gooch and Louthan were the men who won points for Richmond.

In the interscholastic events, Episcopal High School, of Alexandria, was barely beaten out for the championship banner by 2 points by the strong Central High School team, of Washington, D. C. Woodberry Forest also showed up well in the interscholastics by finishing third to Episcopal.

At this same meet on Saturday four A. A. U. records for the South Atlantic District were broken. Rector, a boy, who entered Virginia from Lawrenceville School, near Princeton, did the remarkable time of 5 4-5 seconds in the 100-yard dash. If this is recognized by the Amateur Athletic Union it will make the fifth time in the history of amateur field and track sports that an athlete has gone 100 yards in this time, Duffy's record of 9 3-5 seconds is, of course, excluded, as is also that made by Kelly, of the Pacific Coast, who did the distance in 9 3-5 also. Rector's performance is even more remarkable in view of the fact that shortly after running the hundred, he made a mark of 22 seconds flat in the 220-yard dush. Captain Stove Lorando, of the Georg, Washington track team, set a new South Atlantic mark in the haif mile when he defeated Bosher, of Virginia, in two minutes and one second. Archie Randolph was the other to attain honors by setting the time of 25 4-5 seconds in the low 220-yard hurdlos.

Organized bowling ended last week

Organized bowling ended last week with first honors going to the Olympias after a close contest. The Crystals deserve mention for the showing made in tying the crack Olympias and compelling a play off at the close of the schedule. To-night members of the league will held a banquet, and until the season again opens will discuss for Richmond to enter the American Bowling Congress.
